

Storm moves west!

Storm Interface, the award winning manufacturer of toughened components for the payment terminal and kiosk sectors, today announced the relocation of its US operations to Scottsdale, Arizona.

In a brief statement Peter Jarvis, Storm's Senior Executive VP, confirmed that recent corporate acquisitions had presented an opportunity to centralize resources and operations. 'The bringing together of sales, tech services and admin support for the North American market into a single location will provide the most efficient platform to provide high level customer service, said Jarvis. Operations are expected to transfer from the company's Oakbrook Chicago offices on the 2nd of September this year.
